Community Cohesion Policy

Introduction

“UK society is made up of many ethnicities, cultures, languages and religions, and it is constantly evolving. The UK has a rich heritage of cultural and ethnic diversity, stretching back over many centuries...

Do we, as individuals and as a nation, respect each other's differences and build on commonalities? Do we really have an understanding of what it is to be a citizen, of how it is to live in the UK? And, most importantly, are we ensuring that all our children and young people have the education they need to embrace issues of diversity and citizenship, both for them to thrive and for the future of society? This 'education for diversity' is fundamental if the UK is to have a cohesive society in the 21st century.

(Diversity and Citizenship – a review, 2007, p16)

Through a range of legislation (Race Relations Act 1976 as amended by the Race Relations Amendment Act 2000, the Disability Discrimination Acts 1995 and 2005, the Sex Discrimination Act 1975 as amended by the Equality Act 2006) and our duty under the Education and Inspectors Act 2006, Coppice and Langley Schools recognise and embrace their joint responsibility to promote community cohesion.

Both schools recognise the importance of spiritual, moral, social and cultural development and the five outcomes of the Every Child Matters agenda. The inclusion of these in the curriculum model of each school makes a valuable contribution to developing strong and positive relationships, working towards community cohesion on a number of scales.

The promotion of community cohesion within the shared building on Trinity Road is of particular importance as the school communities are very different:

Coppice Primary School serves a largely white British population, however this is changing and is becoming more ethnically diverse. 22.3% of the children are identified as coming from an ethnic minority, this is an increase of 5% in the last two years. There are currently 400 children on role. Most come from the houses surrounding the school although some travel further.

Langley School has 120 pupils on role, aged 3-11, all with a statement of special needs. The pupils live across 25 postcode areas, with larger numbers living in Erdington and Kingstanding. In 2016/17, 58% of the pupils were white, with the next biggest ethnic group being Pakistani. A consistent pattern within the pupil population is the prominence of boys, with only around 15%-20% being girls.

Aims and values

Coppice and Langley Schools share a common vision for a cohesive community with the schools at its heart. We aim to establish and further embed a shared sense of contribution from different individuals and different communities, with each holding and sharing different life experiences, beliefs, aspirations and ambitions.

Monitoring and managing community cohesion

Overall responsibility for embracing community cohesion lies with both governing bodies. Working with the staff in school, they will audit current provision in line with:

- Community (within school, locality, UK and global).
- Equality and diversity scheme.
- Extended schools provision (core offer, parenting and family support, swift and easy access, community access).
- Every Child Matter agenda (stay safe, be healthy, enjoy and achieve, economic awareness, positive contribution).
- Progress towards the school improvement/development plan.

Within the staff team, a range of actions are implemented to ensure that teaching and learning, equity and excellence and engagement services are fully embraced. This will help both schools, and indeed other provisions on site to maximise awareness and tolerance of faith, ethnicity and culture and socio-economic factors. This common vision will ensure all stakeholders to feel a sense of belonging.

Specific responsibilities

The governing bodies will, through their collaboration group, ensure matters relating to Coppice and Langley Schools are dealt with in a collaborative manner.

The headteachers will ensure both Coppice and Langley Schools (staff, children and parents) share a commitment to work together to promote unique and quality experiences and opportunities for all.
